TRAINING OBJECTIVES:

The primary goal of this 4-week Intensive Generalist Training is to provide students an understanding of the philosophy of holistic mission, biblical principles and strategies of community development, and an opportunity to practice basic skills for sustainable livelihood and development in impoverished contexts. At the end of the training students will have acquired basic knowledge and ability to assess holistic needs in a community, set priorities, plan for solutions, and pursue a biblical community development process to resolve challenges a community faces. Secondly, students will have acquired basic hands-on skills useful for carrying out projects in water resources development and management, food production, nutrition and balanced diet, health and sanitation, dental care, animal care, construction, renewable energy development, auto-maintenance, and local micro-economic development projects. A third objective is to prepare students to be able to apply the philosophy and principles of holistic development to the broader context of community development practice.
